The Giant Dipper aka the 'Earthquake' Roller Coaster on opening day in 1925. It was built during the Golden Age of wooden roller coasters by the Prior & Church Company and is one of a handful of large wooden scaffolded roller coasters in the country; it closed for a time in the 1970s and was later restored and reopened. It was designated a National Historic Landmark in 1987.

Margaret Cody Baudo, RN, checks the latest issue of RIMJ during a sunset walk on the Mission Beach boardwalk in San Diego, CA, while visiting family. Marge's brother, Bill, at left, is the owner of Releve, a Guide Dog for the Blind, who accompanies him everywhere, but seems tucked out after walking the two-mile boardwalk along the beach, which features restaurants, arcades, stores, and the historic Giant Dipper Roller Coaster in the Belmont Amusement Park.
