RHODE ISLAND MEDICAL JOURNAL

RIMJ Seeks Volunteer Physician Editor

The Rhode Island Medical Journal (RIMJ) is seeking a Rhode Island physician with an interest and expertise in editing and writing to assist with issue planning, theme development, peer review, and author correspondence.

This volunteer editorial position, with a flexible time commitment, is a unique opportunity for a physician familiar with the State's healthcare landscape to engage with colleagues, faculty, students and allied healthcare professionals.

RIMJ publishes 10 online issues a year (available at rimedj.org), with a hiatus in January and July. The publisher is the Rhode Island Medical Society (RIMS), and editors are approved by the RIMS Board for a three-year tenure, with an option to renew for an additional term.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter and CV to Editor-in-Chief William Binder, MD, at william\_binder@brown.edu.
